

Patient-centered furnishings for better care

Many of the country's most respected hospitals turn to AmFab when implementing the patient-centered programs so critical to healthcare today. Our customized patient communication boards and overbed tables are key to creating the best possible treatment experience. In the demanding healthcare market, AmFab helps improve outcomes, contain costs and increase compliance. With an unmatched range of options, our U.S.-made, handcrafted products can meet specific aesthetic and functional needs.

The goal is patients, family members and caregivers working together.

AmFab offers beautiful ways to optimize the daily interaction among patients, families and caregivers.

FOR PATIENTS

Our communication boards keep patients informed and up to date by displaying goals, treatment plans, names, even the time of day. The upscale furniture aesthetic and fine woodgrain finish options help create a reassuring, home-like environment.

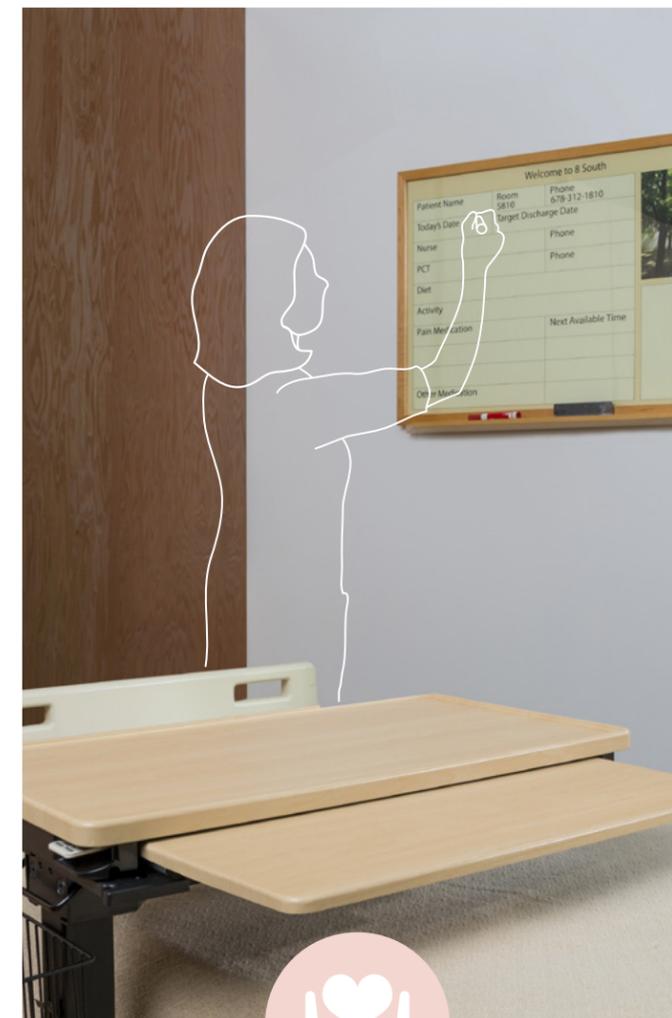

AmFab overbed tables maximize comfort and safety. They are easy to move up and down. They give patients a heightened sense of order, control and stability, as well as ample surface and storage for food, drink and personal items.

FOR FAMILY

It's easy to move, position and adjust our overbed tables. They fit under beds and stretchers, even around most recliners. When family members can help make their relatives comfortable, it heightens their confidence in the quality of care.

Communication boards ensure that the family is always up to date. They provide a place for medical questions, discharge plans and inspirational greetings. Family members gain peace of mind and a feeling of involvement with their loved ones and caregivers.

FOR CAREGIVERS

Nurses helped design our communication boards. They wanted a convenient, organized communication point that helps everyone involved in the treatment plan, especially during and after shift changes. The enhanced communication improves care and contributes to a professional work environment.

Dieticians with a meal tray in one hand can bring out a second tabletop by lifting a lever with their second hand, and dinner is served. Together, boards and tables can improve patient satisfaction scores and reduce the length of a hospital stay.

IMPROVED COMMUNICATION

"Communication with patients and their families is key to a safe and patient-centered hospital visit, and the patient communication boards by AmFab make it convenient for staff to do this well, while enhancing the aesthetics of the patient room." - Planetree

The Joint Commission cites improved communication among nurses as one of their top improvement goals.

One hospital used whiteboards to improve Press Ganey scores 2.5 points, resulting in a 5 percent increase in overall institution satisfaction.

You name it, we'll build it.

Select the features and finishes that satisfy your particular requirements throughout the continuum of care, from birthing rooms to acute care to hospice. The array of colors and styles lets you complement your room décor for a coordinated aesthetic.

PATIENT COMMUNICATION BOARDS

Want to pair a tempered glass message board with a tackable surface? We can do that. Add a clock or a place for the paperwork that accumulates during a patient's stay? Can do. You can even specify custom graphics tailored to each room (e.g., room number, phone, etc.).

OVERBED TABLES

Optional dual tops can receive food trays – the lower surface comes out with a one-handed maneuver – without having to clear the primary surface. Cup holders prevent spills. Ergonomic handles and gas cylinder lifts are designed for comfortable use. A double-mirror vanity, baskets for storage – even a keyboard tray – are available as well.
